The above signatures were obtained in less than an hour this evening, and had there been more time it is believed that the signature of every manufacturer in the place could have been secured.

place could have been secured.

It having been stated that H. L. Morey died recently, and that the letter was found among his effects, it has been ascertained to day that no male person by the name of Morey has for several years lived in Lynn, and that the death of such a person has not been recorded at any time during the present year at least. There was no organization of any kind of employers at the date of the alleged letter—January 23, 1850. In 1877-8, during the Orispin troubles, 25 or more manufacturers combined for self-protection, but the organization adopted no name and ceased to exist in March, 1878, when the labor to exist in March, 1878, when the labor troubles were adjusted. The employers have held no meetings since.

Voted, and thus manging on to Garfield so coat tail, as it were, for guidance, coat tail, as it were, for guidance, coat tail, as it were, for guidance, with an Garfield was absent. He asked the Colonel why he did not come out and vote for Garfield for President, if he so admired himself as follows:

himself as follows:

The recent movement of the Chinese to our Pecific cosat partakes but little of the qualities of such an immigration either in its purposes or its result. It is too much like an importation to be welcomed without restriction; too much like an invasion to be looked upon without solicitude. We cannot consent to allow any form of service labor to be introduced among us under the guise of immigration.

ir Joint Discussion at Wilsonburg

CLARKEBURG, October 22. Eittors Intellige

It is so seldom that the public is per mitted to bear of a joint discussion between Col. Wilson and John A. Hutchinson, the opposing candidates for Congress in this district, that such an event must the stump, as the readers of the INTELLI-GENERA are aware, and his dodging in this respect has been one of the most marked eatures of his canvass. For some reason or other—easy enough to imagine—he Democracy of the John C. Calhoun Strip took a notion to divert Hutchinson's time from the general canvass and trot him round for the balance of the campaign in fence corners, in one part of the district, by Ea debating at several points to be named by

Hutchinson promptly granted the reques and met him at the village of Wilsonburg last night, a little place a few miles from The arrangement agreed upon was that Hutchinson should open in a speech of thirty minutes, Wilson to follow for fifty-five minutes, then Hutchinson again for forty-five minutes, and Wilson to close in a speech of fifteen minutes.

to show the position of the Democratic party, and the hopes for its succesa in this campaign by our enemies abroad, he ex-hibited a free trade pamphlet distributed in this country by British gold as a Demo-cratic campaign document.

COL. BEN'S REPLY Col. Wilson, in his fifty-five minutes of reply, referred to what he called the grand old Democratic party that had existed since the origin of the Government, and cratic party will find it just as much to endeavored to show that the Democratic party was in favor of homesteads by saycan be to the Republican party to have ing that it had acquired the broad domain of the West and South, while the Repubbesten them. He said further:

The Republican party never asks anything for itself which it does not grant to others. If we have three to one in a precinct we do not forbid a ballot to the fourth man, but we allow him to come up and vote just as he pleases, and we count the vote just as he casts it.

Now, all we ask for our carpet-baggers, the colored race, and all others, is that they shall be allowed to vote, and not turned out of their homes or ostracised. That is all we ask. If the Democrata beat us on this issue, we are willing to accept lican party had acquired nothing but Alaska (said nothing about it having acthat James Buchanan bad vetoed the Homestead bill, but thought that it was

Col. Wilson, in the course of his speech, referred often in his own defence to Mr. Garfield's absence, and often to the fact that he voted the same way that Garfield did. He said that Garfield failed to vore over thirty times, though he acknowledged that most of the bills were trivial and unimportant, such as motions to adjourn, but some, as in the case of the Louisiana frauds, were important.

In regard to the tariff question, Col. Wilson said that he individually was a tariff man, and always had been. Also that he had stood with the Greenbackers on the money question (and yet now stands dead

HUTCHINSON'S REPLY. Hutchinson, in his forty-five minutes reply to the Colonel, took up the Centra ization part of his speech and ventilate On Saturday last Gen. Garfield sent the following dispatch to Chairman Jewell, of the National Republican Committee, New York:

I will not break the rule I have adopted by making a public reply to campaign lies, but I authorize you to denounce the so-called Morey letter as a bold forgery, both in its language and sentiment. Until its publication. I never heard of the existence of the Employers' union of Lynn, Mass., nor of such a person as H. L. Morey.

CALHOUN COUNTY.

-The Stuff on Which They are Fed Their Orators.

BIG SPRINGS, CALHOUN Co., W. VA.,) October 21, 1880.

I wish you would send me some san debating at several points to be named by the Colonel in a couple of the counties. (Wirt and Wood), several of them little "tuppenny" places. The tricky Colonel thought that this would be a good thing to for the sake of effect, after having declined to meet Hutchinson weeks ago at the most prominent places in the State when openly challenged to do so.

The mosto of Hutchinson seems to be "semper paratus"—aiways ready—and hence when he came here to speak to Col. Ben's neighbors, and the Colonel asked for the privilege of dividing time with him, Hutchinson promptly granted the request vulgarity and faisehood.

On Tuesday of this week (court day) a person named Tom Park, hailing from Wood county, made one of these characteristic Democratic speechea. Who Tom Park is at home, I do not know, but he is certainly a very poor specimen away from home if he can be judged by the speech he made on the occasion referred to. Let me give you some of his points. They may seem incredible to you, but you people in the enlightened Panhandle have no idea of the stuff that is served up in this ead of Ben Wilson's district by his drummers and bummers. Park said that Garifeld voted for the salary grab and got $5,000, which he kept twentyone days, and was then caught by the sheriff, and in order to get out of the clutches of the law paid over $4,500. Now, could you believe that there was any part of God's footstool so benighted as to permit the people to be insulted with impunity by such a faisehood. And yet you ought to have heard the cheers that arose from the crowd at this statement. They took it all down as gospel.

Then he went on to tell them how the Republicans had declared that no State was out of the Union, or could secede from it, and yet they had legislated these States out in order to disfranchise the Rebels. "And," said Park, "the Democrats Irauchised those people again." (Here arose more cheers.)

A gay young man was selling Presidential pictures on the ground. He asked one fellow if he did not wish to buy the picture of a candidate. The fellow said, "Whose have you got?" One was handed him and he looked at it, and asked whose it was. "Weaver," said the peddler. "I don't want Weaver," said the Democrat. "Well, bere's Garifields." "Well, I'll be — d-dif I want him." "Oh," said the peddler, "I see; you are a good Democrat, 'Well, bere's Garifields." "Well, bere's Garifields." "Well, bere's Garifields." "Well, I'll be — d-dif I want him." "Oh," said the peddler, "I see; you are a good Democrat, 'Well, bere's Garifields." "He peddler, "Yon, or Hancock heither. I don't want any of them. Hancock hilled too men at Gettysburg."

How is that for simon pure Democracy

They can vote for Hancock, but they don'
